THE STANDARD.

NIL FALSI AUDEAM, NIL VERI NON "AUDEAM DICERE". (Cicero.)

SUNDAY, 10th AUGUST 1862.

A birds-eye-view of Congress.

If we ascend above the common-place rumours of the day, to take a sketch of our parliamentary body and its proceeding, we shall be able to see a little clearer, before us. The political atmosphere is somewhat hazy, and it is diffi ult to tell how the wind blows: morever the figures are so often changing positions that we can hardly recognise their identity. Nevertheless we perceive great agitation and rivalry between two parties of nearly equal strength. The one is trying to push a wooden horse, inscribed "Capital", through the Chamber, introducing it as a present to Buenos Aires with Gen. Mitre's compliments. It is of enormous dimensions and the Constitution Gates being too narrow to admit it, Dr. Costa, who is seated between the monster's ears, cries out to "take off the hinges," since it is absolutely necessary to get it through. The opposite party refuses to pull down the barrier, which has so often protected them, and declaims against the Grecian gift, which they say is filled with hidden dangers. Hereon a conflict ensues between Messrs Elizaldo, Zavaleta, Garcia, Torrent, &c., who pull the monster along with huge cables, and Messrs, Obligado, Alsina, Montesdeoca and the others who shut the Gates in the Minister's nose. A parley ensues, and both factions appeal to the people, who seem rather divided and leave the battle to be fought out by the several champions of either side.

In a late skirmish about the Cordoba elections it was a fair tye—but since that time the Capitalists have had an increase of 4. and the others only 2. Thus it would seem certain that the wooden horse will succeed in getting in. The jockey in charge (Dr. Costa] promises to repair whatever damages may be caused by knocking down the Constitution Gate and driving over it.

Troy had her Cassandra, whose prophecies were disregarded, and Buenos Aires boasts an "Amalia" who possesses the faculty of making the populace laugh, but her oracular efforts have no weight, as she contradicts herself most flagrantly, and if we believe her to-day, we must accept the reverse to-morrow. The Hector of our city is Don Adolfo Alsina, renowned in the wars, who is so rash that old Priam, his father, has joined the opposite party and abandoned his former friends, for the sake of peace. Sr. Riestra would seem like Paris, since he has given the apple of discord to the Provincial Chamber setting them at logger-heads with both Congress and the public. Achilles has not yet come, being still at home in Entre Rios: he is perfectly invulnerable except in the part of Customs. Dr. Sarsfield imitates Æneas, anticipating the wooden horse will bring trouble in Buenos Aires, and carries off his household gods to San Fernando. Hector Varela like Pygmalion with his lovely Dido, cuts away to the modern Carthage; bringing with him lots of money.

Bartholomew Agamemnon is commander in Chief of the besiegers, but an excellent friend of the citizens and, far from wishing to destroy Buenos Aires, seeks to make it the Capital.

In another place we see the Chamber of Senators kicking up an Irish shindy, about something they don't well understand. They, all, have little dockets in their hands, some marked 400, others 374 and the greater number 340, for these represent the value which they mean to set on doubloons. It seems the Deputies thought gold worth 400 $, while the Bolsa set it as high as 420, and the Senators made so little of specie as to adopt a standard 25 per cent. below exchange.

It is probable that many persons will apply to Congress for doubloons at 340$ but as this is a fictitious figure, the National Legislature will refer them to the Bolsa, assuring them that the law is only intended as a matter of form, and that gold ounces will never fall below 400, until we burn, patriotically, half the paper-money we may possess.

But we must descend from our aerial position, for a storm is browing. Next week we shall be able to give some fuller views of the operations of Congress.

Editor's table.

The sale and transfer of one of the largest grocery stores in town, is an event worthy of remark; first because it affords us an opportunity of paying a passing tribute of respect to the retiring merchant, who has gained for himself a reputation, which will be of the the greatest service to his successors, and secondly because it is much on the home style to see a man, when he has, after years of toil and labour accumulated a fortune, retire from the busy circle, of which he was so long a member, to live a quiet easy life, for the remainder of his days. Whether the gentleman in question has been allured to this step by the beautiful lines of Cowper or that he considers a trip, to see the Exhibition, necessary for his health, we cannot say, but one thing is certain, that he is giving up an excellent business.

The lighterage charge on goods is the constant complaint of every merchant in town. We are informed that some things cost as much to bring from the Inner Roads to the Custom House, as they do from England to the Plate. This is becoming such a perfect nuisance that the whole commercial community look forward to any sort of scheme, which will rid us of the lighters. When one takes into account, the enormous sums which are yearly thrown away in lighters; what item may we ask would be too great, to invest in constructing floating decks, wharfs &c. We see £500 paid away for plans, for deposit stores, when may, no doubt be wanted badly enough, but what is it in comparison to a good floating wharf to land goods.

If we are to wait for the "Tribuna" or "Nacional" to call public attention to this matter; we may possibly be delayed until Dn Hector returns, or the capital is settled.

Applications have been made to us to publish the "Standard" in Spanish, but we have declined to do so on our own account, however we think it but right to say that we are open to offers, from other parties for the privilege of translation.

We ourselves have no ambition to represent aught but the foreign interest; we are well supported by all the foreigners in town and country and we court merely the sympathy of our brethern

The day before yesterday a sale was made of an estancia in the partido of Matanzas for $ 1.-300,000. The purchaser is an Irish sheep farmer who already possesses land twice its value. If this is not an incentive to our friends in Ireland, England and Scotland we dont know what is.

Murder of a Near Relative of the Capt. of Port of B. Ayres.

'Uncle Toby's Crow Found.

TRIAL BY JURY.

PESTALARDO COMING BACK!

The Libertad arrived yesterday morning from Montevideo, bringing us files to the 8th instant.

The 'Reforma Pacifica has taken up the question between the 'Tribuna' and Sr Bushental with great zeal. We pity our Oriental friends who have to digest such a host of figures, etc, as is involved in the question.

The opera company is well sustained: the Solis is crowded every night; not a box empty; not a seat to be had; 'Boccanegra' has taken Montevideo by storm, and from the street-boy to the President, one hears nothing but 'Viva Simon.'

A great gambling-house for boys has been brought under the surveillance of the police, and several parties have been taken prisoner:

An atrocious pulperia murder took place the other day, in Porongos, in broad daylight The unfortunate victim was a Porteño, named Agusto Arco, a near relative of Sr Giminez, the former Captain of the Port of this city. It appears he came to Porongos after the battle of Pavon, where he remained. Having occasion to go to a neighbouring pulperia, he met with a young Spaniard, named Manuel Fragueiro, who, although only two years in the country, has already acquired some of the gaucho tricks. Some slight dispute having arisen, this murderous Spaniard pulled out a large knife, and stabbed the Porteño in the abdomen. The unfortunate man in a few moments breathed his last. Fragueiro was immediately arrested, and sent in irons to San José.

Robberies are rife in the Mount, and it is becoming a dangerous thing to be out after ten o'clock.

There is a little town in the Banda Oriental, which floors all South America for dividends: we mean Salto. Some time since we published the splendid dividend of the bank; now we have to call attention to the Eighty hard dollar dividend paid on every share of the New Salteña Company.

It seems hardly credible that a little line of steamboats on the river Uruguay should do such business, and speaks loudly for the good management of the company. Captain Harrison and his friends, in the face of such a magnificent dividend, we apprehend will have little difficulty in getting all his shares subscribed for.

The 'Reforma' publishes an infallible cure for small-pox. It is a plant which grows abundantly in North America, called the 'Indian Cup. Dr Morris, of Halifax, has published a long dissertation on this weed, and recommends it strongly. We hope our doctors in this city will look after it, and get some at any cost. The alarming increase of this disease in Buenos Ayres is a fact which every one is acquainted with: the hospitals are crammed full.

The passport system is becoming rather hot for the government. People begin to think the 'Standard was right in calling it a human export tax' and we understand petitions are getting up by all the merchants of the city against this nefarious tax.

The sword presentation to General Saragossa has been metamorphised into a zinc medal affair. Subscriptions are coming in slow, as some people think that Saragossa, by this time, may be in greater want of a coffin than anything else.

Colonia is going ahead fast. It now has its steamer and hotels, etc; even the 'Standard has its circulation in this town.

The authorities deny the statement which had been circulated respecting Mr. Drabble shipping over a lot of muskets and swords, to arm his peons on his estancia: as Mr. Drabble is not a subscriber, to the "Standard", we must plead ignorance of the whole matter, but will add, that, probably, he will find more use for his fire arms there than in calle Chacabuco.

In Mercedes, the old Spaniards gave a great turn-out, on the 26 ult. and have subscribed for the erection of an hospital in that town.

Business is very dull, and capons are selling we are informed at a fuerte each.

A splendid race took place the other day, on the Uruguay, between two steamers,—the "Salto" and "Villa del Salto"; large sums were bet, and the excitement was extreme. At 10 precisely, both steamers left Buenos Aires: the "Villa del Salto" arrived first at Higuerita; the "Salto" arrived 10 minutes before the "Villa del Salto" at Fray Bentes.

The Custom-house authorities in the Mount are coming in for a fair share of notoriety. The 'Republica' calls loudly for reformation, and we, as a matter of course, chime in.

In Concordia, the saladeros are killing mares fast, there being no fat cattle. A very large amount of jerked beef is on hand, and there are neither ships nor buyers.

In Corrientes business is so depressed that shop keepers complain that things are going to the very dogs; the very estancieras complain of the great scarcity of money and impossibility of selling any thing.

The crew of the American ship Uncle Toby, wrecked on the English Bank who, by last news, were missing, had been taken on board the Hamburg lugger Elisa o Maria. from this port, and landed in Rio Grande.

Trial by jury, one of the greatest of all civil rights, is of frequent occurence in Montevideo. The other day, the "Reforma" was again brought before a jury for some articles which were deemed offensive. We are not at the merits of the case, but we do say that it appears to us trifling with the very institution itself, to be every day bringing forward actions in which the damages are but imaginative

LATEST FROM CATAMARCA

Summary Eviction

House Attacked!

Dr O'Mill refuses all interference on the part of Tucuman and Santiago, One Mr Fernandez, pacificator for the latter province, writes to his government complaining that he had received no answer to the official letter with which he favoured the ruler of Catamarca. Even more, he had not long arrived after a tedious journey, when a vulgar fellow came to ask him what he wanted in that city, and his mediation was so little regarded that six ruffians attacked his house at night, as if he were a common pulpero. 'Seeing,' says he, 'that my character as Apostle of Peace was growing ridiculous, I cleared out, and here I am back again in Santiago.'

TRAVELS IN BOLIVIA.

CHAPT. III.

Indian Sepulchres.

On mounting our mules on the following morning, we found the mountains and valleys covered with snow, and felt a peculiar pleasure on traversing it, after a lapse of several years, as it brought to our remembrance our native land. The morning was bitterly cold, and the road intersected with several streams, which were partially covered with ice. Pursuing our course we arrived on a large plain, bounded on the left by the Cordillera, and passed a row of ancient mud structures, which at a distance had the appearance of towers: they were the sepulchres of Indian Chiefs before the Conquest, the walls of which were in a perfect condition, which may convey an idea of the durability of their structure: they were made of the most simple materials, being entirely composed of mud and grass, called Adobes, which have the peculiar property of standing for centuries, without any signs of decay from time and weather. These mud-built structures have a small opening in their walls, looking towards the east, of a sufficient size for a person to crawl in. The object of this small door-way is, according to a legend, that the abode must be entered in the posture of veneration and humility There have been rings, gold and silver idols, pottery of ingenious workmanship, discovered in the cells of those sepulchres.

The evening was far advanced, as we wound round the skirt of a mountain, and after proceeding for half an hour along a plateau, we heard the agreeable sound of the barking of dogs, which announces to the traveller his approach to a habitation; and soon arrived at the post hut of Condor-Pacheco: here we halted for the night, and spread our beds, as usual, in the midst of the Indians.

The post hut was kept by an Indian and his family, consisting of a wife and three daughters: the wife was still very young, as the Indian women marry at an early period, and become mothers at an age, which would be considered in England as little more than childhood: it is unusual to see an Indian woman, who has passed her fourteenth year, without a waw-waw (child) upon her back. Their decay, however, is equally premature, for many may be seen old at twenty.

The dress of the female Indians is very peculiar, the lower part being as wide round the body as the broadest crinoline: it consists of a number of woollen petticoats of sundry colours; the inner one being worn till it falls to pieces: the number of these petticoats is in proportion to their duration, which in many amount to ten and twelve: a scarf of different colours surrounds the shoulders, which is pinned on one side of the chest with a topa, a large silver pin, occasionally of handsome workmanship; but more frequently they use a spoon, which being pointed serves as a pin. This dress serves the double purpose of clothing by day, and a bed at night. They are uncommonly dirty in their habits, and though not infested with fleas, they frequently swarm with another kind of vermin, less grateful to the sight, but which one gets accustomed to see without much impression. A traveller must make up his mind to all kinds of inconveniences in this mountainous country.

Correspondence.

Administration of Justice in the Camp.

While the country is improving by giant strides, the administration of Justice in the camp remains as it was in its most gloomy days. While it is becoming thickly populated by industrious and enterprising men—while its stock is daily increasing in quantity and value—while it is sending money to the coffers of the exchange by the million: it remains as in days of yore, under the arbitrary rule of a petty, and frequently, ignorant justice of Peace. This system may have done when it had neither population nor stock of much value, but those days of primitive happiness are gone by. The inhabitants are now very numerous: It is preposterous to suppose that one man, can rule over an extent of one hundred leagues, populated by 10,000 souls; with equity and due promptness, when it is plainly seen, that the most upright of these men hush up, and put off, every case that comes before them, with a view of creating themselves no enemies. What can be expected from those, who are neither just nor upright? The Government has lately had a specimen of some of the capers of these gentlemen; one from Belgrano, sends a printed document, perhaps with one eye shut, which orders, according to his interpretation, that all new roads must be 60 yards wide. Another from Giles, asks the Government for four leagues of land for tillage, without perhaps having a title to it. Another from Chascomus, tells the Government, he has refused authorizing documents not drawn up in his presence and what is more, says that those not duly signed by his Highness are invalid !!! for this sort of business the majority of the Justices of Peace are always very ready: but, is it for the good of the country they are so quick at dispatching this sort of business? No; It is to enable them, or their clerks, to charge an exorbitant price, for drawing up any paltry document. When such tergiversations are made by men who can write; what may be expected from men who cannot write their own name, nor even read it when they see it written. Some may think it incredible, that a person not knowing how to read or write, would be nominated, a camp Justice of Peace—Commissary of Police—a person having full power to sentence a man to two years military service; however incredible it may appear, it is no romance: without going far to look for such a case, we find that last year one of this stamp, ruled a district, one point of which is only seven leagues from the flourishing city of Buenos Aires: the district referred to is Pilar.

With such a system as this, it is by no means surprising, that trespass, horse stealing &c., should be the order of the day. It is downright negligence on the part of the Government to leave the valuable interest of an entire partido, to any one man, no matter who that man may be.

What the camp requires, is, a court composed of a jury, a Council, or something of the kind that will attend to its interests; by seeing justice done, where justice is required; and not put off to an eternal mañana.

This the Government could do without any trouble or expense if they only set about it in earnest. What difficulty would there be for instance to have a jury nominated in every partido, to hold a court on fixed days or some such system as that of the Prud'hommes of France, which has proved so beneficial there, and has been in existence since 1285. This is a Council composed of twenty six members, and called Prud'hommes assesseures of the Justice of Peace; thirteen of whom are elected by employers or masters, and the remaining thirteen are elected by workmen &c.;to constitute a Court four at least must be present exclusive of the president, who is in all cases the Justice of peace. See Legislation Industrielle, contenant le Code des Prud'hommes (Paris 1855.). Unless the camp is to be treated as a conquered territory, it is high time its judical system was modified.

It is useless for the attorney-general to trouble himself drawing up instructions. Of what use has the Manuals, cut out this year, been? What is wanted, is, something to cause action, to replace the present system of mañana, and while they are left solely to their own control, mañana will be the motto. Better earn 12,000$ a year sitting by a stove; than by sitting in a court of Justice, making enemies.

DICK.

FOREIGN MISCELLANY.

The plan of sinking the Merrimac.

The Merrimac having been destroyed by the act of the Confederates the New York "World" thinks there is no longer any necessity for concealing the fact that it was designed, if she had attempted another raid in Hampton Roads, to have run her down. This was to have been done by the steamer Vanderbilt; and the amount of force with which this ship, moving at her average speed, would have brought to bear upon her intended victim, is still a matter of interest. It is thus calculated.

The dead weight of the Vanderbilt is, in round numbers, 4,000 tons, and her average speed is at least fifteen miles an hour. That is equal to 60,-000 tons moving at the rate of one mile an hour, which, in turn, is equivalent to 300 tons moving at the rate of 200 miles an hour. The velocity of a cannon ball may be rated at two hundred miles an hour. The Armstrong gun, one of the heaviest in use, carries a 100-pound ball. Three hundred tons is equal to six thousand pound. In other words, the Vanderbilt would strike the Merrimac with a force of six thousand 100-pound balls from an Armstrong gun, at the same instant and in the same spot!

A farther calculation shows that the momentum of the Vanderbilt would be equal to 1,200 balls from the Union gun on the Rip Raps, each one of which weighs about 500 pounds

So it will be seen that the suicide of the Merrimac was well-timed after all.

WOOD VS IRON.—The news here recently published of the operations of our fleet below New Orleans shows that iron did not get the better of wood in the late naval contest. A wooden frigate sank the ram Manassas, and a wooden gunboat sunk the iron-clad steamer Webster. The knowledge of these facts may have occasioned the great caution lately manifested by the Merrimac. Farther experiments may show that the idea of the worthlessness of wood in the contest with iron is not quite correct. It held its own very well here.

LOCAL EVENTS.

GIUDITTA ALTIERI.—One of the Oriental admirers of our charming countrywoman has devoted some lines to her praise. The writer (Figueroa) is the most distinguished poet of the sister republic. He compares the lovely Hibernian to a star, a rose, a butterfly &c., but we think his rhetorical image is lame, and far short of the reality.

GEN. E. MITRE.—This officer has been elected deputy to the Provincial Chambers instead of Dr. Langenheim whom we noticed yesterday by mistake, copied from the native press.

THE WEATHER.—Seems preparing for a great storm For the last two days we have had great dampness and a hot sun.

Captains of vessels in our port will please remember that Santa Rosa, patroness of America, usually favours us on her anniversary with heavy storms, even sometimes before that day.

CONGRESS.—The discussion of the federalization question continues to morrow and probably the voting will take place this week.

It is expected that the project already passed in the upper house and supported by Government will be adopted.

The deputies of Buenos Aires are divided on the question, four in favor and eight against it. With the provincials it is the reverse; the majority are in favor of it.

TERRIBLE MISTAKE.—Owing to want of space we had no room in yesterday's paper to call attention to the frightful blunder which the "Tribuna" made about the "New York Herald", circulation. We are glad, however, to see they have corrected themselves, and hope they will also confess their error on the Capital question and candidly admit that Buenos Aires is the natural the proper Capital of the Argentine Republic

RIVER PLATE HAND BOOK 1863.—We are happy to announce to our friends that for a short time past we have been preparing a work under this title, to consist of about 200 pages

It will be the first of its kind, not only in Buenos Aires but any where else and will serve as a directory and guide book to Buenos Aires, the Argentine Confederation and Banda Oriental.

Our countrymen will find this work of the greatest utility as we will give all possible information, statistics, &c. &c.

The book will also contain an advertising section, which will have great circulation. The price will be $ 100 per page.

It will be published on or about the 1st November, but we recommend all parties wishing to advertise or insert engravings to apply as soon as possible if they want to be in time.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.—In the Concepcion del Uruguay, the following persons have been elected, all of whom are in favor of General Mitre as President, Marcos Paz as Vice

Sr. Dn. Juan Barbino.
" " Luis Gonzalez.
" " Joaquin Gamarra.
" " Juan Reinoso.
" " Cipriano Urquiza.
" " Eugenio Nunes.

IMMIGRATION.—It is with the greatest pleasure we notice almost every day the arrival of immigrants from Europe.

This year has been one of the best in this respect and the total we believe will not fall short of 12,000 per annum.

This is not much, but still it shows a firm and progressive increase far preferable to a sudden rush for imaginary gold fields.

We are of opinion, like one of our correspondents, immigration should come in this manner; in numerous but proportionate doses.

CONGRESS.—To-morrow, Congress will meet to discuss the Capital question again. We understand in a day or two it will be put to the vote.

TO-DAY.—The Public Museum is open to the public. The bands will play at 3 o'clock in the Plaza Marte, before the Retiro Barracks. Colon and Victoria will be opened at 8 o'clock P. M.

MORTALITY.—The estimable wife of Dn. Nicanor Zapiola died on Friday after a short and severe illness.

Deceased died in the bloom of youth being only 21 years old.

Don Manuel Rosenda also in the prime of life, aged 23 died on Tuesday. He was a younger brother of the sub-treasurer of this province.

Mortality among children has assumed very alarming proportion, as we are informed on good authority The prevailing disease is small pox and also a few cases of typhus fever.

CHAMBER OF SENATORS.—The business of yesterday was the Reformed Customs Law which passed on a general reading. Art. 1st was voted on 2nd reading.

PROGRESO CLUB.—We have received yesterday an accession to our subscription list, the aristocratic "Progreso" club, imitating their brethern of the "Plata", have found the "Standard" indispensable to their peace of mind—Every day we have 5 or 6 new subscribers, but the "Progreso" is worth ten! We have been assured that they intend to silence our critiques by a general carte blanche to their amusing soirées,

THE HERCULES.—Arrived on Friday from Corrientes.

THE PAVON.—Is due to-day from the Rosario, and returns on Monday.

PARANA DE LAS PALMAS.—We think it right to advise our friends that the Pavon goes through the Paraná de las Palmas, calling at all the intermediate river ports. (See advertisement)
